CONCUSSION IN SPORT

All workshops run from 6.30pm – 9.00pm

Concussion is a significant and complex health issue within the Australian sporting landscape at all levels of play, and following on from a successful 2018 roadshow Sports Medicine Australia and the NSW Office of Sport will again partner to deliver a series of education workshops across NSW in 2020. These programs will provide those in attendance with a greater knowledge of concussion, its prevalence, signs and symptoms, recognition and management, return to play and recent research in the area. Presented by highly respected researcher Dr Andrew Gardner from the University of Newcastle, this is a great opportunity open for all within the sporting community.
